

Kennedy, Ursula Morell, Amy L. Pass, Sergio Rico, Christian Sweningsen, and Linda Winters.

Finally, John Scott Legg at SteinerBooks has been instrumental in bringing this book into the world. We are grateful to the entire SteinerBooks publishing team, who saw our manuscript's promise and the great need for its insights.

Just like the training course that provided the foundation for this book, this was a team project with a community of dedicated individuals behind it. Each unique contribution to the manuscript has proved invaluable. It has been a monumental project. As we pass the book along to you, our readers, we also want to acknowledge all our patients and all the researchers and clinicians who are part of this journey with us. Thank you!

INDIVIDUAL CONTRIBUTOR ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Steven Johnson, DO

Thank you to all my colleagues and staff who give such wonderful care to our patients. Thank you to all of our patients who have touched our hearts with their courage to heal and their dignity in the face of hardship. A special thank you to Liz, my wife, who has been on this journey with me for over 21 years, managing the office and caring for our patients, always with an open heart.

Nasha Winters, ND, FABNO

Fellow of the American Board of Naturopathic Oncology

So many people and places have influenced my passion for integrative oncology and mistletoe in particular. My gratitude goes out to the many patients who continue to guide and teach me. If it weren't for you, this book wouldn't have been written. To my colleagues who inspire me with their curiosity and desire to change the cancer conversation—I celebrate you. And, to my family and friends, who continue to believe in me and my vision for the future: Thank you, and I love you.