

Adam Blanning, MD

Deep thanks to Philip Incao, MD and Alicia Landman-Reiner, MD, for their mentorship, encouragement, and friendship in exploring anthroposophic medicine. Many loving thanks to my wife Lauren for her support.

Marion Debus, MD

I would like to thank Matthias Girke, who has been my clinical teacher for years of close collaboration in Havelhöhe. Working together with the wonderful members of the Vademecum Editorial Board has been inspiring and deeply influenced my clinical work. Maurice Orange was my most important teacher in oncology. Many anthroposophic doctors around the globe work with mistletoe therapy for the sake of their cancer patients and, in a self-sacrificing way, set up training courses to spread knowledge of the possibilities of anthroposophic oncology, namely: Maike and Yvan Villegas in Peru; Harihara Murthy, Srinivasa Rao, and Ravi Doctor in India; and Iramaia Chaguri, Sheila Grande, and Bernardo Kaliks in Brazil. Thank you all.

I want to thank my awesome wife, Ellen, who encouraged my pursuit of Naturopathic Medicine and who has been my bedrock of steadfast support. You have slogged through the trenches with me hand-in-hand over the past 25 years, and I could not have done any of it without you. Thank you so much, dear! And to my daughter, Isabel, who has kept my life in balance with her humor and joie de vie. Never stop dancing, Baby Honey Badger! You've both been the rays of sunshine in my life to light my path and provide inspiration during the stormy times.
